Machine Gun Fire Update – September 21, 2010

Herriman, Utah – The National Weather Service issued a Red Flag warning for this afternoon, however, fire officials are optimistic about the objectives planned for today. A strike team of 10 engines and 40 firefighters patrolled the containment line closest to the homes throughout the night maintaining the size of the fire at approximately 4,346 acres and 25% contained.

Additional crews arrived last night. Planned actions for the day are to take advantage of the morning, cooler temperatures, low winds and higher relative humidities before the afternoon forecasted Red Flag warning.
